

Deal Practically Closed Which Assures Janesville One of the Largest Tractor Plants in the United States in Short Time

SAMPSON SIEVE GRIP FARM TRACTORS TO BE MANUFACTURED IN JANESVILLE IN THE IMMEDIATE FUTURE—EMPLOY LARGE FORCE OF MEN.

TO CLOSE DEAL SOON

Ultimately the Plant Will Practically Double the Population of Janesville Although the Rapid Growth May Not Come Immediately. —Covers One Hundred and Twenty-Five Acres of Land in Spring Brook.

After weeks of tension and numerous rumors it can now be announced that Janesville is to be the home of Sampson Sieve Grip farm tractor, one of the various industries controlled by the General Motors Corporation of Detroit and New York.

At present this corporation has factories at Oakland, California, and Pontiac, Michigan, where these tractors are manufactured, and Janesville will be the third plant, and ultimately their main plant, if present plans are consummated, employing some six thousand men.

Deeds conveying approximately 125 acres of land and other smaller units located in Spring Brook have been filed with the Register of Deeds and unless there is some hitch in the final settlement of the conditions under which the General Motors Corporation decided to come to Janesville, the factory is assured.

There has been so much delay in securing clear titles to the property desired and adjustment of other conditions, all of which even now have not been settled, that a statement assuring the factory to Janesville would have been premature before this time.

Even now there is a possibility, but a slight one, that something may arise which will seriously delay closing the final papers of the deal, but it is safe to say it will be consummated and work on the construction of the first unit of the proposed buildings started within a short period.

For the present these buildings are to be constructed as separate units and the number will be increased as the demand arises. Probably several hundred skilled workmen will be needed to start with and later, as the business increases, more will be employed as new building units are added.

Selection of Janesville. Aside from the construction of the new buildings, the General Motors Corporation takes over the plant of the Janesville Machine Company, and will continue to operate it as a separate institution. The selection of Janesville as the location for the new factory came through the untiring efforts of J. A. Craig, General Manager of the Janesville Machine Company, and because of the location of this well known manufacturing concern of farm implements in this city. Mr. Craig will be the general manager of both concerns, the Janesville Machine Company, already completing plans to add a full line of power farm machinery to work in connection with the Sampson Sieve Grip tractor.

Extend Business. Thus the Janesville Machine Company will be given an opportunity to extend its manufacturing line and trade to the fullest possible extent. The expansion will be along their usual lines and through the regular retail channels. The scope of operation of the entire United States as well as foreign countries when war conditions are settled and arrangements can be made. The new company coming to Janesville will be located on a tract of land consisting of all the property lying south of Eastern avenue, through to the main line of the C. & N. W. railroad and between the Bailey farm and the belt line of the C. & N. W. With the exception of the two blocks located north of the main line C. & N. W. and south of the Bailey farm, the entire property is the property of the Bailey farm, the property of the Michael Quirk Estate. Lawrence Cronin and all of the houses and lots facing on McKee boulevard on both sides of the street south of Milwaukee railroad, as well as houses and lots facing on James, Elliott and George streets, in all 22 houses over 100 lots and 25 acres of unplotted land.

The factory buildings will be commenced just as soon as men and materials are available and a large force of workmen will be put on at the new plant to turn out the new products as soon as it is ready.

Well Known. The General Motors Corporation already makes the well known lines of automobiles such as the Buick at Flint, Mich., the Cadillac at Detroit, Chevrolet at Flint, Oakland at Pontiac, Olds at Lansing, Mich., General Motors Truck at Detroit, Sampson Sieve Grip tractors at Oakland, Calif., as well as at Pontiac, Mich., and other subsidiary companies.

The agricultural field presents at the present time unlimited possibilities for the development along power farming lines and its growth and expansion are similar if not greater than those which have existed in the automobile field for the past few years.

The General Motors Corporation, with its tremendous resources, has conferred upon Janesville the highest possible compliment when it decided to locate here and combine the marketing of its tractor output with the line of Janesville implements.

Double Population. Eventually it will mean practically double the population of the city and the first step, which contemplates the employment of hundreds of skilled workmen, probably within a year or more, is but a step in the construction of other units which will necessitate the employment of more men and materially increase the number of citizens.

Engaged in the manufacture of essential farm implements, needed not only in this country but all over the civilized world, during the period of war, and with increasing demand when the war ends, doubtless the companies will be given material aid and support by the federal government in securing labor, essential.

Important Center. It makes Janesville one of the important manufacturing centers of farm implements of the Middle West and the fact that this location was selected out of a number of cities considered in various states in the Middle West, because of its geographical situation, railroad connections and its location in the heart of agricultural manufacture, will doubtless induce other manufacturing concerns to come here later on.

The whole proposition is so stupendous that it is hard to realize, but it means a bigger Janesville than has ever been contemplated by even the most optimistic dreamers of the city's future.

Means added responsibility for the city administration, increased trade in every line of business, the construction of hundreds and thousands of new homes, the springing up of new additions, increased attendance at the schools and churches and the addition of a class of citizens that are most desirable.

Depends on Government. Just how fast the plant will be built is largely a matter of government, of course, upon war conditions, but engaged in manufacturing essential farm machinery, it is safe to predict that both the companies will be kept busy and working to capacity from the start.

Too much credit can not be given Mr. Craig and his associates in the Janesville Machine Company, who have made this possible. No bonus was offered to bring the company here and merit and the untiring work of the men interested in Janesville's future properly accomplished the wonder.

Sixty Percent Of German Submarines Have Been Ruined

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, June 7.—Senator Swanson, acting chairman of the naval committee, after a conference with navy heads today declared the allies and American naval forces have destroyed sixty per cent of all German submarines constructed and they have cut shipping losses in half.

Assures Public. Statements to assure the country Senator Tillman read a letter from Secretary Daniels stating everything being done this country. Senator Tillman added: "I want to assure the public stricken that we have a navy that is up to snuff and we will go after those damn devils under the sea and I hope sink them all."

Given Treatment. One of the crew of the steamship Carpathia sunk by a submarine off the Virginia coast Wednesday was taken aboard the U-boat and given medical treatment for injuries sustained during the sinking, the statement showed today. The man was then placed in the lifeboat with his companion. Details show that the submarine carried at least 7 men, for that many were counted on her deck by the crew who mounted the 6 inch guns.

Attacked French Boat. An Atlantic City, June 7.—A French armed merchant vessel came in port here today and reported an encounter with a German submarine off the Virginia coast. Details of the battle are lacking but it is said the fighting occurred at a short distance outside the cape. The extent of the damage to the merchantman is unknown.

Are Confident. London, June 7.—The manner in which the American nation showed the latest exhibition of German submarine frightfulness represents another defeat for Germany said Archibald Hurd in further statement on U-boat operations off the Atlantic coast of the United States.

Mr. Hurd who is well known as a writer on naval subjects characterized as here today the German U-boats as "the carry out of our raids on American towns from submarines."

PERSHING TELLS OF NIGHT RAID JUNE 2 [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, June 7.—A continuation of General Pershing's description of yesterday's raid, "Section B in Picardy during the night of June 2 and 3 a hostile patrol of one officer and about 30 men attempted to find one of our listening posts. The men in the post opened fire, killed the German officer and retired to our line without suffering any casualty."

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF SUN AT CHEHALES

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS] Chehalis, Wash., June 7.—Hundreds of visitors are arriving here today to view the total eclipse of the sun which will be visible here tomorrow afternoon. The eclipse will be seen from the center of the path of the eclipse.

Excursion trains will arrive here tonight and tomorrow morning, bringing delegations from Seattle, Portland and other cities. In Seattle and Portland the phenomenon will appear as only a partial eclipse. It will begin about 2:37 p. m. and reach totality at 4:08 p. m.

This is the only total eclipse of the sun in the next century that can be seen from the state of Washington. Those who make this trip to this city will see on their way home a good view of both eastern and western horizon. As the moon begins to enroach upon the sun a dense black shadow will appear. At the eclipse approaches totality, this shadow will be seen scurrying along the western horizon at the rate of 3,000 miles an hour. When the sun is completely covered, the sky will be enveloped in darkness black as night. The total eclipse will last two minutes.

TWO MILLING COMPANIES ARE CALLED BY SWENSON

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Wis., June 7.—The Schmidt Milling company and the Gustavus Milling company, both of Oshkosh, have been charged with grinding an excessive amount of flour for the army and navy. The two companies are being investigated by the Wisconsin food administration. He ordered that the excessive amount of flour be brought back to the mill and that the flour be used for the army and navy.

BENNY KAUFF DRAFTED; WILL ENTRAIN JUNE 24

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Pomeroy, Ohio, June 7.—Benny Kauff, a well known professional baseball player from the New York Giants, and one of the best known ball players in the country today was ordered by his local board to report for military service on June 24. He probably will be sent to Camp Sherman, Ohio.

NEW RECORD IN SHIP LAUNCHING DURING MAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, June 7.—Ship launching in May lacking deliveries set a new record. Seven-one hulls totaling 344,460 dead weight tons were put into the water. Thirty-nine of them were steel with a capacity of 23,750 tons and 32 were wood of 115,700 tons.

SEVENTEEN REPORTED KILLED WHILE FIGHTING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, June 7.—The army casualty list today contained forty-eight names, divided as follows: killed in action, seventeen; died of wounds, twelve; died of accidents, six; died of disease, seven; wounded severely, six.

AMERICANS IN ASSAULT ON GERMANS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] UNITED STATES MARINES ATTACK GERMANS IN FORCE AND PUSH THEM BACK—ALL OBJECTIVES WERE TAKEN.

CAPTURE A VILLAGE

Take Town of Torcy and Pushed Into Sources — Force Battle With Huns in Village Street.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] With the American forces on the Marne, June 7.—The American marines who began an attack on German lines late yesterday captured the village of Torcy and pushed in to Bourges, northwest of Chateau-Cierry. This morning they were holding Torcy and were pushing back the Germans through the streets. All objectives in this attack were obtained. The American plan did not include the taking of Torcy but the marines swept into it and drove the Germans out. The one objective which was not reached was on the right of the attack in Belleu wood. The fiercest fighting is continuing here.

Second Attack. The second attack made today by the American marines on German positions northwest of Chateau-Cierry early gave promise of being as successful as this morning's assault. The marines reached all their objectives and the German line was pushed back. The early reports indicated the Germans were on the run for the time being and surrendering right and left to the American advance.

Used Bayonets. American bayonets last night reached the outskirts of Bourges, northwest of Chateau-Cierry, and poured a hail of machine gun fire into the enemy, inflicting casualties. Bayonets were used freely against any Germans who attempted to make a stand in the street. The German line was slowly driving the Germans back in the face of heavy artillery fire, including gas shells. The German artillery was performing magnificently in this operation.

English Report. London, June 7.—German troops fled before the bayonets of American marines in the action between Villiers and Chateau-Cierry. The report corresponded to the Daily Mail, with the American forces in France. Wounded soldiers told how one company of marines fighting in a wheat field became surrounded by superior numbers, but they fought their way out in the face of severe German machine gun fire. In addition they captured several machine guns and a large quantity of ammunition.

The American troops showed considerable skill in using cover and thereby reduced their losses. Despite this caution, however, they made the mistake of not being ready for the full haul of prisoners. It is added, may reach three hundred.

Several wounded Germans complicated the situation by acting as good soldiers as the Germans. The Americans adapted themselves quickly to the situation and carried out their instructions without delay.

French Active. With the French Army on the Marne, June 7.—Up to this hour the American and French troops advanced to the east of the Marne and Torcy had reached the outer edge of the towns of Bussieres and Torcy on the west, and the allied line had been carried to Grange south of Gange and Torcy had been cleared of the enemy. Further details are not available at this hour.

The American comprise the detachment on the left of the advancing line. After capturing a small wood shaped like the letter "g" the Americans reached center of the village and pressed forward slowly under fire of German machine guns during the attack this morning. At dawn the German artillery fire against the allied line was very heavy and the line was well studied with machine guns. In the activity this morning the Americans and French advanced one kilometer in the German line and captured 270 prisoners, including ten officers.

Forty-five minutes after the fighting started one French regiment had taken the village of Belleu and the edge of a triangular wood five hundred yards southeast of Bussieres. Notwithstanding sharp resistance this regiment alone took more than one hundred prisoners.

One of the toughest of all objectives, Belleu, some four miles from Chateau-Cierry was swept by the marines without serious trouble. There seemed to be no German counter attack in strength before long for previous to the afternoon attack which began at 5 P. M. the road between the German line and the hind the German line was filled with guns, wagons and troops. The American artillery turned on them and reaped havoc. The marines in their forward sweep took strong ground on either side of Belleu and cleaned out a ravine south of Torcy which linked up a line with hill No. 142 which was taken this morning. This gave them a strong and dominating position for a continuation of their attack. Their total advance was approximately two miles on a three mile front.

Many Prisoners. The total number of prisoners taken was not known this evening but additional captives were brought in during the morning attack which netted about one hundred prisoners.

Americans Gain. Paris, June 7.—American troops fighting on the main battle front have captured the village of Belleu and Bussieres, west of Chateau-Cierry, the war office announced today.

West of Noyon and north of Montdidier on the Picardy area local operations by the French were successful and prisoners were taken. In the fighting north of the Aisne, the French captured the village of LePort, west of Noyon.

Capture Villis. On the Marne front, northwest of Chateau-Cierry, French troops captured the village of Villis. The French also captured hill 204.

Between the Marne and Rheims British troops regained a footing in the village of Bligny, inflicting large losses on the enemy.

Get War Crosses. War crosses have been given to the American forces for their valor, as follows: Lieutenants George E. Redwood, Christian S. Holmes, Sergeant James A. Murphy, Corporal John E. Rich and Henry J. Monaghan, Privates Edward Armstrong, Bernard S. Rott, and Carson L. Shuman; Captain C. Raymond Hulst, Lieutenant Paul McLeod and Second Lieutenant Donald M. McLeod.

The last three are engineers and won their crosses for their behavior in the night Nov. 30, southwest of Cambrai, when the American engineers assisted the British in withstanding a German attack.

Glad to Surrender. A notable development was the low number of prisoners all of whom are Prussians. They expressed themselves as tired of the war and glad to get out of the fighting. This was the first time they were taken without being killed, although the Saxons, the Wurttemberg troops and others may go without.

Did Not Put Up Fight. It just did not put up a fight, however, their officers were among them urging them on. But the marines dashed into them and they were taken without a fight. One machine gun was taken back a prisoner into two German officers and men. The machine gun was taken back a prisoner into two German officers and men. The machine gun was taken back a prisoner into two German officers and men.

Play Many Tricks. Another story was about to take a prisoner when the German threw himself on the ground and discharged his revolver at the American, after calling "Kamerad." That is, "comrade." The German was shot and killed. The other four others who had surrendered but refused to put up their hands.

Marines Advance. The marines advance in the Belleu region went forward in four waves in open formation. The men in the first wave were for the most part armed with rifles and machine guns. The second wave was equipped with automatic rifles. With them came squadrons of machine gunners lugging their collapsible guns. They crossed the river and the river was bent over space and rolled up the bank. The trenches the marines passed over were clearly visible from below but hardly deserved the name for they were simply a hole in the ground. The machine gunners were in the line and the machine gunners were in the line.

Village on Fire. Looking down the valley only a narrow road led to the village of Bussieres could be seen on fire and as the correspondent watched the scene, the cloud of white shrapnel and the village of Torcy appeared in the distance. The village of Torcy appeared in the distance. The village of Torcy appeared in the distance.

Artillery Active. The auxiliary fire that preceded the attack lasted an hour and was of special intensity for five minutes preceding the time the French and American batteries both took part in the firing, putting down a rolling barrage and then shifting to the road behind the German line.

It appears the marines, in going in, forestalled an attack the Germans had planned. It was to have been carried out by the French, who had been put into the line for that purpose, and was to have taken place either today or tomorrow. These men have relieved the Prussian guard and they have been chewed up in the fighting of the last day or two. They in turn have relieved the Saxons just after the marines took over the sector. The marines are now in the line and the marines are now in the line.

Summary of War Activities on the Various Fronts Told in Brief Tabloid Dispatches

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] HOLD GERMANS.—Allied troops are not only holding the Germans in check on both sides of the Champagne salient, but American marines are French troops have thrown back the enemy to a depth of more than one mile on the sector northwest of Chateau-Cierry. Dominating positions were captured by Franco-American forces and these enabled them to continue to advance Thursday evening when they reached the outskirts of the towns of Bussieres and Torcy. Thursday evening the French and French up to 10:30 had widened their advancing line to about six miles to Gandelieu in the west and Belleu on the east. French troops were at Grange farm while the French had driven the Germans from Belleu wood and were advancing on the village of Belleu. Further details have not been received.

WHEAT HOARDER SHOT DEAD THIS MORNING [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Hazelton, N. D., June 7.—Barred by Mrs. E. L. Ferras, wealthy widow of a pioneer homesteader of this section from searching the home of her son-in-law, W. W. Dougherty, a war-time farmer who had been accused of hoarding wheat C. Pennington Hazelton, drayman member of county vigilance committee at 1:30 this morning drew a revolver and shot Mr. Ferras dead.

STRIKE AT GERMANS.—Striking the Germans northwest of Chateau-Cierry along the line where the enemy legions were launching their heaviest blow a few days ago, American marines fighting with French troops on either side have pushed back the tip of the salient driven by the Germans in their rush to the Marne. They have recaptured the village of Torcy and late accounts were they were disputing with the Germans the possession of the towns of Bussieres and Brousses. The gallant work of the American "soldier of the sea" in this advance of over two miles along a front of almost three miles stands out as a heroic chapter in the story of American participation in the struggle in France. Narratives of the battle, which began Thursday night, and of a firestorm dash of the marines and the dead accuracy of the fire they poured into the German forces.

WEST OF NOYON.—West of Soissons the French have taken the village of LePort, which is located on the north bank of the Aisne. Further south, crossing the Cugnon river, the French have recaptured the hamlet of Villis and swept eastward from Vieully la Poterie and driven the Germans out of a grove which they held there. Just to the west of the village of Villis, the French launched a counter offensive against the German line and have taken extensive ground.

GAIN OBJECTIVES.—Reports from the scene state that virtually all the objectives of the French attack appear to indicate the attack was a local affair, but part of a well defined plan directed by the allied command. Boldly the French have recaptured the hamlet of Villis and swept eastward from Vieully la Poterie and driven the Germans out of a grove which they held there. Just to the west of the village of Villis, the French launched a counter offensive against the German line and have taken extensive ground.

West of Chateau-Cierry the Germans in their rush last week occupied hill 204, a height which dominated the city. From this they have been ejected by the French. ANTI-BOLSHEVIKI LEADER HAS FLED [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Shanghai, June 7.—General Samsonoff, leader of the anti-Bolshevik Siberian forces at the trans-Balkaria front, according to Eastern News agency dispatches from Harbin, has departed. His departure is attributed to dissension among his forces. It is reported he will abandon his army and flee into Mongolia.

Attacks German. Harbin, Manchuria, June 7.—General Semenov, leader of anti-Bolshevik forces in Siberia, reports that the Chinese troops in the Onon river in trans-Balkaria and strongly pressed a number of attacks, which were checked. German forces composed of cavalry regiments and companies of infantry are threatening to cut off Semenov's communication.

DEMANDED PARDON FOR BOMB-THROWER [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, June 7.—Letters read today at the trial of 112 leaders of the I. W. W. disclosed the activity of the organization in attempting to secure a pardon for Thomas Doherty, radical labor leader under sentence of death for participating in San Francisco's preparedness parade bombing outrage.

The I. W. W. officials collected funds for Doherty's defense, wrote thousands of letters and circulated petitions urging he be freed, and later planned a country-wide drive to enforce the demand for his pardon.

WILL TURN MARINSKY OVER TO GOVERNMENT

Charged With Entering Car at Milton and Stealing Merchandise—Will be Arraigned Before Federal Court.

Stanley Marinsky, who is held at the county jail on the charge of entering merchandise cars at Milton and Stealing Merchandise, will be arraigned before the federal government.

Marinsky, when arraigned before Judge Maxfield last week, attempted to pull the deal and dumb stunt, but it didn't work on the judge. He was scheduled to appear before the municipal court this morning for trial, but it has been decided to have him turned over to the federal government. He is being held in the county jail awaiting the arrival of Deputy United States Marshal William Toulson, who will take him to Madison.

Ray Chapman, who was put on parole some time ago for stealing automobile tires, was arraigned before Judge Maxfield this morning on the charge of not behaving while under the parole law. Chapman was given a severe lecture by the judge, who warned him that another complaint against him would be sufficient cause for his confinement at Green Bay.

TODAY LAST DAY FOR FILING APPLICATIONS

All Who Desire to be Sent to Receive Mechanical Training Must Themselves at Local Board Today.

Six registrants have listed themselves at the local board for mechanics to be sent to Beloit college and the University of Wisconsin up until noon today. More men were expected to make application this afternoon as today is the last day on which men may volunteer their services.

The quota of men to be sent by the local board to receive mechanical training is six. They will be sent from Janesville June 15th.

Ten men will leave the city some time during the five day period beginning Monday, June 24, for Fort Riley, Kansas. This is a regular draft call and the men will be a part of a Wisconsin contingent of 1,000 men.

THREE MORE YOUTHS ENLIST IN THE NAVY

Carl Schoof of This City and H. F. Brunzell and Elmer Uphoff, Both of Evansville, Enter the U. S. Navy.

Carl H. Schoof of this city, and Elmer C. Uphoff and Harold E. Brunzell, both of Evansville, enlisted in the navy in Milwaukee yesterday, according to cards received this morning from the recruiting office there by the local draft board. All three young men are well known in their respective communities and their many friends wish them the best of luck.

The navy is proving popular not only to men of draft age but to some under the age of twenty-one. Thirty boys enlisted in Madison last week, while in only one day at the Milwaukee office this week, 300 boys enlisted. The recruiting office is one of the busiest places in Milwaukee, it being crowded with recruits from early in the morning until late in the evening. In charge keep no regular hours. They work each day until all of their work is completed.

As a patriotic duty, Henry F. Buhl, 430 South Jackson street, here, moved a beautiful barberry hedge from his lawn. Mr. Buhl prized the bushes very highly. The dangerous barberry has been replaced with the local native barberry which is non-injurious to wheat and other grains.

HEMING A SQUADRON LEADER AT CAMP DICK

Victor Hemming, who left for Camp Dick, Dallas, Texas, last Saturday to begin training in the aviation section of the signal corps, writes home that soldiering is great and that it seems to agree with him. He has been appointed squadron leader and will probably remain at Camp Dick for three weeks and possibly six. Under the new airplane program, every man who gets a commission in the signal corps is promoted to infantry drill. After he completes his infantry training he will go to a flying school. His address is: Cadet Victor E. Hemming, Camp Dick, Dallas, Texas, Squadron 11.

Money, Food, Supplies and Men-- Brazil to Use All Fighting Huns

Brazil, June 7.—So quickly and so little is known in the United States of Brazil's conditions that Americans are not aware of what can be accomplished in this country in the war against Germany.

Col. Alípio Gama, chief of the Brazilian Military Commission to the United States and one of the leaders of the nation's war efforts, states Brazil's position when he says:

"I think what our allies most expect of us is supplies. In these days of war, money is not so important as it was in the past. We are now shipping material to the United States. We are developing our industry as never before. We are producing food, supplies, or soldiers. Brazil is heart and soul in the war. She is preparing to give all of these in as great quantities as may be needed by her allies."

That there is no limit to the expense and trouble that Brazil is willing to shoulder to carry out her war program is shown by the commission and other envoys who have in her interest to make purchases in the United States. She is today spending millions of dollars in the United States to speed up her war machine.

Purchase Factory Equipment.

When her war mission went to the United States to buy guns and munitions they could not do so. American manufacturers were working at top speed to supply their government and to fill the orders of our allies. So the Brazilians immediately set about purchasing great quantities of factory equipment to enlarge their steel mills and munition factories. That turned the commission into an industrial mission as well. In some cases they are buying entire factory equipments.

"Our vast country, territorially as large as the United States without Alaska, is one of unlimited resources," Colonel Gama says. "One of our best offerings to the world is manpower. Brazil has a population of 35,000,000. Production in the world. The United States and Allies depend on this Brazilian manpower. Our production last year was 557,654 tons, most of which went to the United States, France, and England."

One of the most valuable things that Brazil has to offer is to patrol the South Atlantic. Even before her declaration of a state of war her destroyers had been acting as convoys for passenger and merchant ships from Brazil to New York and across the Atlantic.

Brazilians Suspected Germany.

The Brazilian people had been restive even in their commercial relations with Germany even when accounts of the invasion of Belgium and other German atrocities created anti-Prussian sentiment in Brazil, which resulted in protests and finally in the severing of diplomatic relations last year according to Gama. So far the war has had a salutary effect on Brazil. Industrially, it has done for her what money would not have accomplished and it has kindled in her a splendid pitch of patriotism. The war has put the finishing touches on Brazil's progress from a small nation to a great nation and has associated her land to a country united for the welfare of the world. Like the United States, Brazil is fighting for an ideal for Brazil absolute and not for her own boundaries, even in its mildest form, and she will not be less zealous to help free the rest of the world. The course Brazil is taking is leading faster than the draft can get them.

Military Service Compulsory.

Brazil is not depending on the voluntary system. Conscription was one of the first measures undertaken by the Brazilian congress after the declaration of a state of war. Compulsory military service always has been a farce. Every civilian male has been subject to two years of military or naval service on attaining his twentieth year, and he is eligible for such service until his forty-fourth year.

Brazil has thus built up a foundation for her new national army. According to members of the Brazilian Military Mission, Brazil had 55,000 trained men ready for her standing army when she entered the war. These men were mostly between the ages of twenty-one and thirty. Government officials and Brazilian papers told of plans providing for three lines of defense. The first will be of boys between the ages of seventeen and twenty, to the number of 100,000. The second will consist of men between the ages of thirty and thirty-seven to the number of 50,000. For the present men from the ages of thirty-seven to forty-four will form the national guard for home defense. It is understood that the men between the ages of twenty-one to thirty will form the stand army. These men, and all of the rest, excepting the youths between the ages of seventeen and twenty, have already been trained.

The Publican

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL
Assistant Dean, Moody Bible
Institute, Chicago

TEXT.—And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner. I tell you this man went down to his house justified, rather than the other.—Luke 18:13, 14.

The Pharisee thanked God he was not as "other men," or as the Revised Version reads, "the rest of men;" he thought he was the best man in the world. But the publican prayed, "God be merciful to me a sinner," or, as the Revision has it, "the sinner;" he thought he was the worst man in the world. Yet our Lord declares this man went down to his house justified rather than the other.

Certainly, our Lord was not blind to the sins of the publican any more than he was to the excellencies of the Pharisee. The publicans were a hard lot, unjust, rapacious, cruel. A story is told of a publican who restored a necklace to a merchant from whom he had taken it by fraud. A Rabbi, commenting on the incident, said we might now expect wolves to drop from their mouths the lambs taken from the flock; yet, the man in the parable took such an attitude toward God that, spite of his sin, he was justified.

The prayer he prayed has probably crossed more lips of dying men than any other prayer. It is so direct, so brief, that it has been called "a holy telegram."

The story of a man belonging to such a class, feeling his own sinfulness and praying such a prayer, will always be of interest to saints and sinners.

How it illustrates the beauty of penitence! True, a man's repentance does not commend him to God. Even the publican seemed to feel that "God be merciful" means, literally, "God be propitiated." The publican felt he needed a sacrifice of blood even though his heart was broken and his eyes tear stained. This is always the case.

Again, the appropriateness of deep feeling on a sinner's part is illustrated in the publican's cry, "God be merciful to me the sinner." The very fact that some who have heard the Gospel many times are still unmoved should lead them to feel deeply. Heathen people, have been moved to cry with the publican for mercy, the very first time the message of the cross has been presented to them.

Conversion of a Cannibal.

The son of John G. Paton, the famous missionary to the New Hebrides, tells a story which illustrates this point. He came unexpectedly one night upon a group of cannibals. His fellow missionaries advised that he retire, for their lives were in imminent danger. But Mr. Paton argued that the missionary should tell the story of the cross, danger or no danger. He took his place before the cannibal chief and told of the coming of God's son to the world, of his life and his death. As he spoke, the Spirit of God wrought and the heart of the savage before him was broken. When the story was finished, the cannibal raised a wooden knife and said, "Missionary, this knife has entered the bodies of a thousand men of whom I have eaten at feasts. But I never heard before of the love of God which sent his son to die for us. It has broken my heart. Take this knife as a token that I become this night a follower of Jesus Christ." Yet some have heard the story many times, but have never cried, "God be merciful to me the sinner."

We need not say that a penitent heart is ready to accept a Saviour. As already pointed out, the publican prayed, "God be propitiated to me." (See R. V.) The doctrine of Christ as a substitute is distasteful to many in this age, but is radiant with glory to those who feel their need of a Saviour. They require no proof of it but accept it with the eagerness of a famished man to whom water is given. Spurgeon in one of his sermons, pictures the messenger of mercy journeying in search of a resting place. He hastened by many a hostelry and tarried not till at length he came to a little inn which bore the sign of The Broken Heart. "Here," said mercy's messenger, "I would fain tarry, for I know by experience I shall be welcome here."

Justification Versus Pardon. Finally, this parable illustrates the blessedness of justification. Many Christians are content to believe their sins are pardoned, for man can conceive of nothing higher than pardon for the guilty. In human courts only the innocent are justified. But in the court of heaven, the ungodly are justified and sent away as if they had never sinned! Through the cross, God is able to be just and yet the justifier of the believer in Jesus. How marvelous!

Surely, there should be no need to urge men to accept such a blessing. Rather let us take our places at once with the publican, crying, "God be merciful to me the sinner."

Then He Had to Talk. "No woman is perfect, I suppose," he remarked in thoughtful way. "I see you no longer love me," said the girl.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

PHOENIX TO BE OUT ON MONDAY, JUNE 10

Phoenix Board Reports Biennial Book Completed. Will Be Issued Monday Morning at 8:30 O'clock.

The long looked for and much desired Phoenix, which is being edited and published by the Junior class of the local high school, will be ready for distribution Monday, June 10, according to a statement made by Leo Dugan, managing editor of the book, yesterday afternoon.

The book is gotten out every two years by the Junior class. It is a genuine school product and is prepared and edited exclusively by the students, working in conjunction with the entire membership of the Junior class. It contains a general survey of the activities of the school over a course of two years.

This year's book promises to be one of the largest, best and most unique ever published. It contains many new features that heretofore have never been inserted in a book of this kind. One feature of the book which the authorities believe will be most appealing to the entire student body is the large assortment of pictures and color plates included in it. The book measures 8x10 inches and contains over 200 pages. It is bound in a pleasing shade of brown and has a large circular gold colored stamp on its cover.

Arrangements have been made so that the book can be quickly distributed from Miss O'Hara's room beginning at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning. Everybody should come armed with a dollar and a half, as the book is $1.50 for those who did not make a first payment and $1.00 for those who made a payment of 50 cents in the early part of the year. The book is strictly C. O. D. as the money taken in now must be immediately sent out to meet the many expenses incurred by the board in its manufacture.

Following are the members that constitute the phoenix board, all being members of the Junior class:

Editorial Staff:
Leo Dugan, editor; Alice Barlow, chat editor; Constance Cunningham, class editor; Thomas Nuzum, athletic editor; Elizabeth Denning, society editor; Gretchen Frick, art editor.

Business Staff:
Kurt Fuchs, business manager; Percy Hill, asst. business manager; Rael Decker, advertising manager; Evelyn Dixon, circulation manager; Miss O'Hara, faculty, critic.

MAKES A PLEA FOR RED CROSS NURSES

Miss Matilda Krueger, Field Secretary of Red Cross, Gave Inspiring Talk at Library Yesterday Afternoon.

An inspiring talk was given yesterday afternoon at Library hall by Miss Matilda Krueger, field secretary of Red Cross nurses, of the central division. She is speaking about the state at the present time in a campaign whose object it is to list all available nurses, induce those who are not registered to do so, and to really organize the nursing power of the state, so that it can co-operate with the State Council of Defense. Here, as everywhere, the doctors of the city are giving valuable help, in listing the nurses, and by posters in their offices, and windows, are disseminating information, regard to the work.

In the talk given by Miss Krueger she gave many details of the different kinds of nursing service, the qualifications required in each, and she also had blank forms for applicants who desired to enter the service.

The state of Wisconsin is co-operating in this work, and has appropriated one hundred dollars for the employment of a secretary to take care of the enrollment. This is done at 558 Van Buren street, Milwaukee. Records will be kept here of all available nurses, not only of those for regular nursing, but for emergency use, as for instance, in an epidemic, or accident.

A campaign is now on to interview every nurse in the state, as to her status, and qualifications. The association is also appealing to all hospitals, and training schools for nurses, to increase their teaching facilities, so that more pupils in nursing may be accommodated. That they have done so, is shown by the fact that seven thousand more pupils are now being trained in these institutions than before the war. Training schools in connection with military hospitals has been approved by the secretary of war, and plans are now being made by Mr. Gorgas towards their installation.

Information can also be secured from Miss Anna Haswell, 610 Jefferson avenue, Madison, and applications may be made to her for blanks and necessary data.

A careful census is being made of the resources of the city, under a committee appointed by the president of the local Red Cross chapter, I. R. Wortendyke. This committee is composed of Miss Harriet Carl, Miss Ja-anne Hayes and Miss Proctor. It has been found that so far about thirty trained nurses have been found in the city, and of these twenty-one are registered in the state. Four nurses have gone from Janesville into military service. These are Miss Wollman, Miss Margaret McDonald, Miss Needles, and Miss Anna Gibbs. Several women who have had nursing training attended the meeting yesterday, and have signed up for home defense work in nursing. Also two or three married women, who were formerly nurses, have agreed to give part of their time to this work in the fall.

Miss Krueger went to Beloit last evening, where she was to speak.

MUST CANDLE EGGS IS LATEST RULING

Food Administration Orders Buyers and Sellers of Eggs to Candle Them, Thereby Effecting Saving.

The United States Food Administration has ruled that on and after June 1, 1918, all eggs must be candled by the buyer or seller, whether he be general merchant, egg dealer or huckster.

"Therefore it will be necessary for you to notify every store in your county handling eggs," Mr. Swenson, Food Administrator for Wisconsin, is notifying the county administrators, "and also every wholesale and retail dealer in eggs in your county of this ruling." The purpose of this regulation is to stop traffic in eggs which are unfit for human food, to prevent their entering the channels of trade, and thereby preventing an enormous waste.

This ruling will be drastically enforced by the Food Administrator and the Dairy and Food Commission of Wisconsin.

LOCAL BOY WRITES FROM "OVER THERE"

Walter Meyer, Former Member of Co. M, Writes Interesting Letter From France.—Tells of the Rainy Weather They Are Having.

Private Walter Meyer of this city, a former member of Co. M, 128th Infantry, but transferred to Co. D, 28th Inf., has written a letter from France telling of conditions over there and also telling of the rainy weather that they are experiencing. His letter follows:

France, May 12th.

Dear Mother: I will drop you a few lines for this Mother's Day and the day in France when all the soldiers are writing to their mothers. It is a good day to write letters also, as it is raining awfully hard and that is nothing unusual, as it is raining here nearly all of the time.

I am well and feeling fine and hope that the weather over there is better than it is here. All we can do here is to go to the Y. M. C. A.'s and believe me, they are fine things. And as for getting anything to smoke, that is pretty hard to do, but we manage to grab a few now and then. I haven't time to write as the censor won't let us say what we want to, but I will write again before long.

Walter Meyer.

AN ALLEN TONGUE.

One has but to read over the columns of any daily paper and discover that in all parts of the country the teaching of the German language is being discontinued in the public schools. The fact that the Janesville school board has decided to overturn a custom of forty years is sufficient for objectors to the suggestion that the German language be discontinued and the talking of it in public places be either prohibited or so materially discouraged as to stop and take notice of it is a new move. The English language is the tongue of all loyal citizens. The French and Italian tongues that of our allies, for Belgium speaks French, as do the majority of the citizens of the other of our brethren in this great war. We may find men with a tinge of the Sinn Fein throughout this nation who allege loyalty, but when a deep hatred for England, who are in positions of confidence and trust, who defy public opinion and insist on maintaining German in the school courses.

Washington Irving once wrote a tale of Sleepy Hollow, that every student of literature remembers, of the headless horseman and his cohorts. Now these disciples of the Sinn Fein doctrine and the advocates of the German language may find that it is not headless horsemen that pursue them and words of those who have the "famous Barney Stone" classed at "moonlight" will fall like the walls of Jericho did before the Children of Israel at a trumpet blast. "This is America and whether at a commencement exercise or not there is no necessity to defend teaching German, the tongue of a foe that knows no pity, or criticizing those who oppose such actions. This espionage is not far-reaching and there are plenty of men now that Rock county has actually lost by citizens by the hands of the invasion of the nation of peace, who will not hesitate to act even though their objective be shielded by the sanctity of pupil or educational bureau. This is America for Americans. Allen enemies and others who oppose the government and the best interests of the war are not wanted. These are men whose ancestors were in the land of the MacDonnells or who came a few years later, whose loyalty in patriotism is so apparent that it is surprising, while on the other hand we had the men and women who left Germany and Austria to escape the iron will of the lawless rulers, who are loyal to the core. This is a war of nations and citizens are either for the government or against it. If against it there are plenty of places where they can stay for the duration of the war and perhaps later they will awake to their sensibilities.

Janesville has been bloodied and Janesville will again suffer losses and the spirit of the average citizen is not favorable to the shelter or the half patriot in any respect. Nor is Rock county. The electors of Milton Junction, at the spring election, showed their stand in regard to teaching German, and let us hope the lesson has been driven home. Men who all hail to the Janesville school board and may not think quickly act on their recommendation.

WHERE INFORMATION LEAKS. The American people are naturally so frank and open-hearted that it has been very difficult for us to realize the danger from spies. Formerly anyone could visit any of our forts or arsenals. The Germans have no doubt complete plans of all our defenses and of all our material plants.

As regards the leaking of information about war plans, movement of troops, etc., there are abundant channels of information. One of the most important is at Washington. Diplomats have always called that city the most long-tongued capital in the world. Well guarded state secrets have always had a way of leaking out with a speed that astonished the heads of departments.

According to tradition, many of the spies who get the secret stuff are women. They are pictured as being of a fast, adventurous type, who fascinate men in a position to know things, and drag information from the secret recesses of their minds.

Probably very little is said in that way. A good deal is said to come from innocent young women who hear their husbands and fathers tell important things, and repeat them unthinkingly to people who are listening for a purpose.

Some information is said to leak out at dinners where public men gather. All is sedate until champagne flows. Then some of our wise men thought to let out their most secret thoughts to plausible people whom they have just met.

That kind of thing is not confined to Washington. We have many thousands of men who know the things the spies want to find out. They should be careful about ingratulating strangers. Also they should look out with whom they go out to dinner, and what refreshments are served. It is quite a safe proposition for them to go to bed at 9:00 p. m.

WHY HESITATE?

Perhaps we should not preach the doctrine of hate, but when we read of the awful atrocities that the Hun inflicted upon our American boys taken prisoners it makes the blood boil. Stop and consider that if a man spoke to another in the English language in Germany what would happen to one or both? Yet our boys are being mailed to crosses and slowly crucified, as Christ was, and killed by slow torture. Their eyes are gouged out, their throats cut and in the prison camps they are starved and subjected to all sorts of indignities. This is not humanitarianism, but governmental facts. Yet here at home we permit Germans to converse in their "mother tongue," we also are lax in our discussion of civic matters and as a result we are giving the enemy that knows no mercy an advantage that no other civilized nation on the top of the globe would permit an enemy. Why hesitate to condemn the man who sneers when the Star Spangled Banner is played? Why not strike out and teach them democracy rules the world to come, yet such persons exist and we Americans stand for it. Why? This is no time to hesitate. Every public servant should be asked clearly and concisely to declare his allegiance to the flag and conform to it.

There were some people who wouldn't contribute much to the Red Cross because they have to pay so much on Liberty bonds, and their Liberty bond subscription is always small because a big Red Cross drive is coming along.

A. L. J. writes to ask what should be done with the men who deliberately sell poor seed at such a time as this? Don't be too harsh with them. After they get real hungry, let them dig up their seed and eat it.

Some of the people who spend so much time fretting because our army does not advance on the Germans, are the same ones who allow the allies of the Germans, the insect pests, to eat up our gardens.

The increase in railroad passenger rates will come hard on the people who travel a long distance to buy alleged bargains they can get just as well or better at home.

The German soldiers have again kindly consented to come out of their safe trenches where they can be killed off at double the usual rate.

Also the new freight rates will be lamented by people who think more of goods the greater distance they have to be transported.

In preparation for observance of the anti-louping regulations, some people are already buying carefully stuffed office chairs.

BUILDING A GRATE FIRE. The evenings are chilly and a fire in the grate is not amiss. The following instructions for building a grate fire are given:

I. Select a jewelry store. Select the largest and most expensive stones, preferably diamonds or pear pearls. II. Sell the jewels to some one. III. With the proceeds purchase one share of United Fruit preferred. IV. Using this share as your certificate of character, apply for admission into our best society.

V. When admitted, marry an heiress. Select an heiress who owns a house in the country.

VI. After the ceremony, have the heiress place all her property in your name.

VII. Mortgage the house in the country.

VIII. Take the money and buy one lump of coal.

IX. Carry the lump of coal to the country house and place it in the grate. Coal should be insured against loss, theft and fire.

X. Take hatchet and split up country house, placing kindling beneath lump of coal.

XI. When coal begins to glow and give off heat, remove it from the fire and deposit it in a place of safety.

XIII. Repeat as desired.

CONCERNING MUD.

At one spot in the trench there is plenty of mud. One of the training camps is located near there. The other night a lieutenant was returning to camp and the mud was up to his neck.

"Do you need any help?" shouted a brother officer who was sitting up in a tree.

"No," replied the lieutenant, "I have a good horse under me."

SUNDAY NOT THE FIRST.

Bill the Evangelist used the language when he weaves patriotism into revivalism. "We are a peaceful people," he yells. "All our paths were peaceful until that God-forsaken, yellow-bellied, hog-worshipping, devil-worshipping, beetle-browed crew of Liberty haters started—etc."

But Bill cannot claim to be the first to hand out paper bullets. There was Will Shakespeare for instance. He pulled a Billy Sunday sermon when he wrote "Macbeth," and had Macbeth address Banquo's murders as follows:

"Aye, in the catalogue, ye go for men, As hounds and greyhounds, mongrels, spaniels, curs, Shoughs, water-bugs and demi-wolves Are clept. All by the name of dogs!"

And later, Macbeth, turning on the boy, says: "Thou cream-faced loon! Where dost thou thou that goose look?"

A MOTHER TALKS. "It is too bad," a neighbor said, "too bad that he must go." The gentle mother raised her head and proudly answered "No. We do not think of it that way, at night when we're alone. We miss his smile of yesterday and all we used to own. And yet beneath the grief we know, the anguish and the care, We're glad we had a son to go to serve his country there."

"It would be bad, too bad, had he been ours for twenty years. And would not stop aside to see what caused another's tears. If unto right our son were blind and deaf to every plea. And thought not of his fellow kind; If he had learned from me That he must live for self alone, and fearing harm, must bow To tyranny, then we should own your deepest pity now."

"If he had failed to catch the gleam within the flag above; Had missed the splendor and the dream and price of country love; If he had lived throughout his youth and had not come to see That better far than life is truth, then you could pity me. Don't say to us that it's too bad, although we miss him so, A greater grief we should have had, had he not wished to go."

"We told his how the flag was born, we trained him to be true. We spoke of wrongs that he must do, and if the worst shall come, and he on Flanders' fields shall lie, Our consolation then shall be we taught him how to die. We never say that it's too bad, beneath the grief we know, And all the loneliness we're glad he bravely dared to go."

SINGLE LOYALTY.

Man cannot serve two masters or two flags. He cannot preach of truth and act with shame. He cannot lie and keep an honored name. Sin to its depths its victim always drags. There is no neutral point 'twixt right and wrong— No middle ground where mingle weak and strong.

He that is half a man, is none at all. The tainted apple is a worthless fruit. The gentleman may never play the game. The double rider gallops to his fall. The two-faced cheat has always been a cad. Man cannot love the good and woo the bad.

Who smiles by daylight must at night be true. He has no friend whose friend is not his foe. Behind his praise may hide tomorrow's blow. Men can't be citizen and alien, too; There is no hyphen linking wrong and right; Who would be free must cease to worship might.

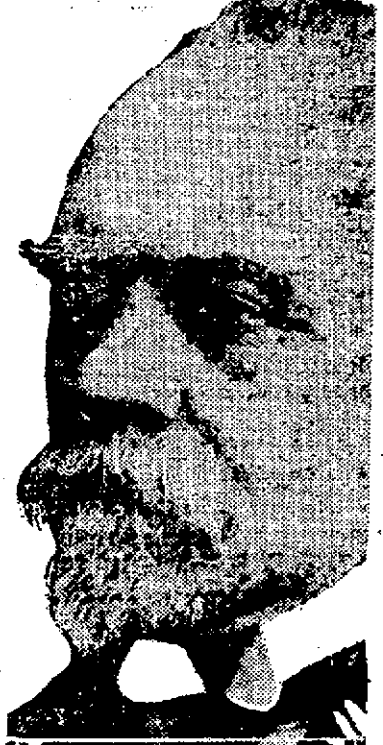

He that is not with us, heart and soul, Will play the traitor in our hour of need. And will be foe to us in thought and deed. He will desert when duty calls the roll. Divided love in service always lags; Man cannot serve two masters or two flags.

LUCKY STONES AND POWDERS

Amusing Revelations at the Sale of a Philadelphia Voodoo Doctor's Effects.

Lucky stones, love powders, cure-all pills and other dope usually sold by voodoo doctors were disposed of by the executors of the estate of Charles Mason, says the Philadelphia North American.

A crowd of persons interested in such articles attended the sale and the bidding was quite spirited at times.

The king lucky stone, that being the one Mason carried himself, brought only $15.50, although Mason had told several persons he would not sell it for $10,000. It was recalled he said he would sell a chip off it for $100.

Love powders, made of powdered sugar, but over which a spell had been thrown, were sold at three for $5, although the auctioneer said one was considered by Mason as sufficient in ordinary cases.

The powders are supposed to be dropped into any liquid, and the person who drinks this will love. There are two conditions, however, for the success of this. The person who desires the love of the other must love that other already, and the other must not know of the existence of the love powder. Six women and one man bought the love powders.

Curiously shaped pills, which the auctioneer frankly said were made of sweetened bread dough, and had been sold by Mason with a guaranty to cure any disease, brought little money, for the auctioneer was compelled under the law not to represent them as curing anything. Still $9 was realized from their sale, the bidders having faith in the virtue of the pills.

The executor found among the effects of the voodoo doctor 100 letters in which $5 had been sent with lucky stones to be reblessed by Mason. In selling the stones the voodoo man had wrapped them in paper on which a notice was printed that if the bearer told a lie the stone had to be reblessed and the cost would be $5. If this was not done the lucky stone changed its character and became unlucky.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have written a number of patriotic poems some of these have been published in our home paper and I was compelled to write quite highly on them. In some manner they were well advertised and they were spoken at several Red Cross meetings.

I was asked to speak several of them at a patriotic reception and I did. Is there any chance for me to write for a magazine or anything where I could make a little money for I am not well fixed with pen money. If you know of any place please give me the address. Should I address them to you?

Look through the magazines and decide which would be the most likely to take my poems. If they accept them you will be paid.

It will be best to have the poems accepted. If you do not know a publisher you can have the work done at a commercial school for very little money.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a young girl of twenty-six and have been going with a steady friend for the last two years. During our acquaintance he has kept company with other girls, especially the last six months. He often gets another girl at the same time he comes over to see me. Does this show he is dishonest in his mind and whether or not he loves me, or is he trying to put some one better?

My Dear Niece: Any idiot can see the unusual, but it takes genius to perceive the obvious.

When I look at that sentence it strikes me as if a brilliant bloomer. I think of you as a girl who is the last thing I had in mind. You are a charming little girl with a good mind, little damaged by the war. I can say that you are not a genius because you have so far shown no signs of extraordinary achievements.

Personally, I am glad you seem just an ordinary sweet girl. You will be less lonely than your more gifted sisters because you will have points of contact with more people. Should you ever develop into a genius, I shall be proud to have such fortune as I can command, and admire you tremendously from a distance.

But I am babbling and not answering your question.

Do I know why Annie harbors malice against those who do not come to see her when she is sick? Surely, but there was a time when I failed as signally as you to understand the obvious, viz., the reason for her antagonism.

My medical experience "wired me up" as Willie would put it. I saw numbers of kindly and busy people losing friends and suffering from the loss and all because they were too busy to keep a card index of those acquaintances who enlivened their lives by making illness a little less of a burden.

I proceeded to card index the patients who showed symptoms of forming this habit and when they came for their medicine, they brought me all the cards. The immediate result was, some remarkable recoveries.

Annie has a bleak and dreary outlook, but she is driven to open your mail; and she has no means of attracting attention except writing ill. When people fail to notice her she is angry. As an artist, who has staged a clever bit of work and had it ignored in the press.

As a matter of fact, sick people should not have callers. They need energy and have none to spare for social intercourse; if they are shamming, consciously or unconsciously.

(3) Is three times a week too often for a boy and a girl after they have gone together for a long time?

(3) Should a girl allow a boy to come and see her once a week, when she told her no keeps steady company with another girl?

THANK YOU.

(1) If he loved you he would not want to be with other girls too. He likes you as a friend, but does not care enough for you to marry you.

(2) Three times a week is too often unless they are engaged. Twice a week is better known for a girl to see one boy otherwise.

(3) No, she shouldn't.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have known a young man for four months. I am very fond of him, but he has never asked me to come to see me or take me out. Would it be all right for me the next time I am talking to him to ask him to take me out? Do you think he is waiting for me to ask him to the house?

A DAILY READER.

I would not invite the boy to the house. I would think you were wronging him. If he wants to come he will ask.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A married man where I work and I had an argument and finally we bet each other a box of candy as to which one was right. It turned out that I was right. I won the candy. The man brought me a very nice box a few days later. Was it right for me to accept candy from a married man?

Since it was a bet it was all right to accept the candy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What games are nice for two to play?

THELMA.

Of course there are many card games which can be played by two—for instance, cribbage, run and two-handed bridge, etc. For store you can buy a box of children's games which are enjoyable for grown up people as well.

and the shamming is generally unconscious—there is no use keeping it up without an audience. So I forbid visitors to the case of a broken bone, a boil on the nose, or a similar disability.

The injunction to visit the sick was given by a good doctor. It is certain that they would be properly cared for. Among the well to do there is now no need for unattractive nurses. The sick and it is dangerous for them to do so. We know now that nursing is a profession requiring skill and the etiquette of the whole situation has changed.

When friends are ill we write a note or call on the phone and express our willingness to be of service, express it with sincerity, and then we say: "I will not trouble you if I can be of no use."

That is real common sense carried into the realm of friendship. Flowers are always welcome to the sick, and may be appropriate as a mark of interest.

This is a day of intense specialization; but there are few even among the trained nurses made it certain that they would be properly cared for. EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

It is a splendid achievement to master one's temper. If a dispute arises, rather than the subject, rather than carry your point, rather than to win the argument, the young lady returned the engagement ring, and you have since then renewed the engagement. It is not necessary to buy a new ring. The young lady returned the old one back, and it will be perfectly proper to give it to her.

PEG S: If a girl is introduced to a young man at a party and when he meets her a few days later asks to call, it is proper to be at home to him. He should call before inviting her for the evening.

Household Hints

MENU HINT Breakfast: Poached Eggs on Rice and Oatmeal. Bread. Toast. Coffee. Lunch: Clam Chowder. Tomato and Cabbage Salad. Corn Muffins. Dinner: (No Bread) Broiled Hamburg Steak with Fried Onions. Hashed Brown Potatoes. Fruit Cauliflower. (from Rice Flour)

WAYS TO SERVE FISH. Shrimp Fricassee—Tinted thoroughly in cold water, two or three drops of lemon juice, and a few drops of cayenne. Stir until boiling hot and smooth, then add the shrimp and keep in sauce and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Remove from fire and stir in a well-beaten yolk of egg. Last of all, add a teaspoonful of lemon juice and garnish with a little cream. Serve hot.

Clam Cocktail—Skin and chill small tomatoes. Remove the centers and fill with clams. Pour over them a sauce made from one tablespoon each of the juice of a lemon, tomato catsup and tabasco sauce, with seasoning of salt and pepper.

Clam Stew—Heat one pint of milk. When thoroughly hot season with an ounce of butter, pepper and salt to taste. Then add contents of one can of minced clams. Serve hot with Gloucestershire sauce.

Mixed Clam Pie—Render hot fat from small pieces of pork, season with little chopped onions, then pour in a little fish stock. Add a pie crust. Line contents of a can or more of Little Neck clams minced without the juice, cover with crust and bake until all is well done.

Fried Mackerel—Freshen the mackerel. Dry thoroughly with a cloth. Have one egg and one tablespoonful milk slightly beaten. Season the mackerel with this and roll in cracker crumbs, shaking off all that do not readily adhere. Fry in butter or beef fat in fry pan or cut the mackerel in four inch sections (enough for one serving), dip in milk and egg and then in the cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat which has first become piping hot. When thoroughly cooked, place on a platter and garnish with lemon and parsley. Baked potatoes are best with this.

Apple Snow—Peel and grate two large sour apples, sprinkle over a small cup of powdered sugar as you grate it. Keep it from turning dark. Break into this the whites of two eggs and beat for thirty minutes. This will fill a large glass dish. Pour around it a fine smooth custard and serve.

Baking-powder Biscuits—Take one quart flour (can use half barley flour) add one and one-half tablespoonsful of baking powder, salt to taste, which has been added two teaspoons baking powder. Then mix to soft dough with a little water—enough to make it stick together. Roll, cut and bake in quick oven.

THE TABLE Pineapple—Twelve-half can grated pineapple, two-thirds cup sugar; cook up together. Dissolve one package of orange gelatin in one-half pint boiling water. Add pineapple and just before it begins to set, add the pineapple. When it begins to set, add a one-half pint cream whipped stiff. Stir thoroughly and put in a bowl or mold to harden.

SIDE TALKS

—BY— RUTH CAMERON

"I'm more honest than I used to be," said the Authorman. "First man I ever heard admit that he wasn't always honest," said the Cynic.

"Perhaps honesty isn't exactly the word I should use," calmly amended the Authorman. "I guess I mean more punctilious, more conscientious about obligations."

"How can I voice," suggested the Cynic. (That is a pet expression of our crowd. It originated with a young man who, being complimented on his singing, responded graciously, "I like my voice." It's use is obvious.)

He Wants An Answer. "Not at all," said the Authorman. "You quite misunderstand my purpose in mentioning it. My motives are purely generous."

"The point is," he went on, "that I used to be the very devil about acknowledging gifts and answering letters and all that sort of thing, and lately I've reformed. I don't know how your wife's made me. Probably the over development of my sympathetic imagination. I know how I feel if I send a gift or write a letter. I want an answer or a bill the next day. Or if the person I like the gift, or I want an answer to what I said in the letter."

Doesn't Take Any Longer. "So if anyone sends me anything or writes me a letter I can feel him waiting for the answer, and I send it just as quickly as I can. I never pigeonhole things now. I put them on a file on the top of my desk until they are answered. And after all, it doesn't take any longer that way."

"Another thing I used to put off till forever and the day after, was returning anything that had been lent me, books especially. Now I've even got myself trained so that I tend up to that. Any paying bills. It doesn't cost you any money to pay a bill, does it? Of course if you don't have the money, that's another thing. But nine times out of ten it isn't that. It makes me slow. I'm having to pay it out or just plain laziness."

Gives One A Clean Feeling. As the Cynic seemed about to break into speech, the Authorman held up his hand. "I know what you are going to say. My generous motives? Well, because I've found that it gives me a clean feeling to get my obligations tended up to that way. I want to share it with you. I have all clean money, and I don't feel any more or take any longer than writing. Besides it keeps that subconscious burden of knowing you must be doing something for your mind. Tell me one argument against it?"

But nobody could.

Well, if it hadn't been for Robbie Redbreast who said little Billy Bunny was away from the lily pond, as I told you in the last story, I never would have found out what he did after that, and so there would have been no story today. So the next time you see Robbie Redbreast, please thank him.

And now this is what he told me. After the little rabbit had hopped away from the lily pond, he came to a high stone wall. "I wonder what's on the other side," he said to himself, and then a beautiful peacock looked over and said: "I'll tell you, little rabbit. It's a beautiful garden where a fountain plays all day long and the breezes sing all night and the flowers whisper and nod their heads. And then all the roses began singing: 'Sprinkle, sprinkle, little star, just a water drop you are. Twinkle, twinkle, drops of dew, with the sunlight shining through.'"

So the beautiful fountain played this little song while Billy Bunny sat there listening and the beautiful peacock spread his tail to catch the sparkle from the glittering drops of water. And then all the roses began singing: 'Sprinkle, sprinkle, little star, just a water drop you are. Twinkle, twinkle, drops of dew, with the sunlight shining through.'"

Roses white and roses red, And roses yellow, too, instead, And pretty lilies white as snow, And every other flower you know.

And after that Billy Bunny asked the peacock to sing a song, but when he started to sing, oh dear, oh dear, for you know just because a bird has beautiful feathers he may not have a beautiful voice, and the sounds the peacock made were dreadful. Yes, indeed. And if the little rabbit hadn't held his paw over his ears, and then maybe he couldn't have stopped them up, for he had very large ears and very small feet.

Profiteering Landlords TO BE BROUGHT TO TIME

(By International News) Cleveland, O., June 7.—The city council has, by unanimous vote, decided to take action against the landlords who are charging exorbitant rents. With the great influx of war workers to the city in the last year living space has been at a premium and landlords have forced the rents in many cases up to twice what they charged a year or so ago. The council held this unjustified and a form of war profiteering and adopted resolutions calling for immediate measures to regulate rents and for a study of methods by which to combat the rent profiteering.

For Fifty Years Brooms have been breaking at the Shoulders

In the wire wound broom the fibre is bound to break at the shoulder. Strained in the making by being bent down and built over a curve, it can't fail to break sooner or later. Also the tip is stubby, because the fibres can't be measured before being built into the broom, and to trim them off after the broom is made, means sacrificing the softest, finest part. But modern efficiency has found the right way of making brooms. And though, it's absolutely simple, it's absolutely new.

LITTLE POLLY Kembath Process BROOMS

are not to be rivalled, because every stage of their manufacture is covered by patented inventions that literally revolutionize broom making. Little Polly is not the broom of fifty years ago, but the result of the progressive age in which we live.

Instead of being bent down, the fibre in the Little Polly Broom is built up flat, held absolutely tight by steel clamps and protected at the shoulders by a fibre cover.

Not only a full, round, even sweeping tip is assured, but a tip that wears straight right up to the handle. Cut the stitching and you still have an elastic, serviceable broom. The fibre in Little Polly Brooms is toughened and made pliable by the Kembath Process. Ask your dealer or write to

Profiteering Landlords TO BE BROUGHT TO TIME

(By International News) Cleveland, O., June 7.—The city council has, by unanimous vote, decided to take action against the landlords who are charging exorbitant rents. With the great influx of war workers to the city in the last year living space has been at a premium and landlords have forced the rents in many cases up to twice what they charged a year or so ago. The council held this unjustified and a form of war profiteering and adopted resolutions calling for immediate measures to regulate rents and for a study of methods by which to combat the rent profiteering.

For Fifty Years Brooms have been breaking at the Shoulders

In the wire wound broom the fibre is bound to break at the shoulder. Strained in the making by being bent down and built over a curve, it can't fail to break sooner or later. Also the tip is stubby, because the fibres can't be measured before being built into the broom, and to trim them off after the broom is made, means sacrificing the softest, finest part. But modern efficiency has found the right way of making brooms. And though, it's absolutely simple, it's absolutely new.

LITTLE POLLY Kembath Process BROOMS

are not to be rivalled, because every stage of their manufacture is covered by patented inventions that literally revolutionize broom making. Little Polly is not the broom of fifty years ago, but the result of the progressive age in which we live.

Instead of being bent down, the fibre in the Little Polly Broom is built up flat, held absolutely tight by steel clamps and protected at the shoulders by a fibre cover.

Not only a full, round, even sweeping tip is assured, but a tip that wears straight right up to the handle. Cut the stitching and you still have an elastic, serviceable broom. The fibre in Little Polly Brooms is toughened and made pliable by the Kembath Process. Ask your dealer or write to

LOCAL ORGANIZATION OF W. C. T. U. MEETS

Members of the local organization of the W. C. T. U. met in an interesting meeting yesterday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. H. A. Palmer. Among the business matters taken up was a motion to cooperate with the welfare body of the city in entertaining soldiers at Sunday dinners when they are in the city.

Following the business, a program was given. Victrola number, "Somebody's Sun is Shining." Prayer, Bible text in reference to mothers by those present. Solo, "The Swallows," by Miss Alpha Hester. Poem, "Dear Old Mother," and a reading, "In Memoriam," by Mrs. Edith Smith Davis. Victrola, "Christ Arose." Original poem by Miss Lucy Granger. VALUATION OF PROPERTY CHANGED BY STREAM

Madison, Wis., June 7.—An interesting legal opinion relating to the valuation of property whose boundary lines have been changed by the shifting of a stream has just been rendered by Attorney General Haven. The village of Suring in Oconto county and the town of How in the same county are divided by the thread of a stream, which changed its bed during the past year adding approximately three acres to the town of How. The question was whether the change in the stream really made any difference in the boundary line between the village and town.

"In reply thereto I would say that the rule of accretion applies not only to the boundary lines between private individuals, but applies as well to the boundary lines between municipalities, states and nations," says Attorney General Haven. "It is almost a universal rule. In anticipate, however, that your case is not one of accretion, but rather one of avulsion. Accretion is where the change is so gradual as to be imperceptible at any period of time, while avulsion is the sudden and rapid change of the channel of a stream, which is a boundary, whereby it abandons its old bed and seeks a new bed.

"Not knowing the facts specifically in this case by which the change in the stream was made I am unable to state which rule should be applied. The opinion is given to John J. Col-ignon, assessor of incomes, at Green Bay.

QUESTIONNAIRES TO NEW REGISTRANTS; OTHER DRAFT NEWS

Madison, Wis., June 7.—Adjutant General Orlando Holway said that the reason Wisconsin was called upon to send only 1,000 men to a cantonment in June, while the other adjacent states mostly send several times that number, was due to the fact that Wisconsin had sent many more men than these other states in our earlier drafts, and Adjutant General Holway today said large calls from these other states at this time will even up matters.

Arrangements were being made today for giving men registered under the draft on Tuesday a serial number. The state figures show that there were registered in group A, 18,538; in group B, 12,000; in group C, 1,000 (enemy aliens).

Questionnaires will be sent to these men within the next few days, to be filled out and the legal profession of the state are again to be called upon to assist in this service. Adjutant General Holway said today that there would have been a much larger registration of men who have reached their twenty-first birthday since June 5, last, except for the fact that a large number of these boys have already enlisted in the navy. About thirty men enlisted in one week in Madison, and in one day in Milwaukee there were 300 navy enlistments. General Holway says that most of these enlistments came from men who would naturally come under the new draft.

It was originally planned to send the men enrolling for mechanical training from Madison and Beloit. The plan, however, has been changed owing to the fact that only one course of instruction will be given. The men in the engine training will be sent to Beloit. The others will come to Madison for training. Today was the last day for men to volunteer in the mechanical draft. If a sufficient number have not been obtained to fill the requirement of 618 men, then the difference will be taken from the draft records. The school for military training at Madison and Beloit open June 15th.

GERMAN PRISONER HAS BECOME HOBO

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, June 7.—The German war prisoner has become a "hobo" who wants neither to work nor to fight. Many such prisoners, both Germans and Austrians, were enlisted at Beloit in the American Red Cross mission returning from Rumania. They were never under guard, were usually in small groups and apparently had no employment or wish for employment. They were without arms and shabbily clad, and always declared emphatically that they had no desire to go back into the German army, nor even any wish to return to Germany until a general peace was declared.

If the prisoners showed any disposition to organize or even to travel about in marauding bands, they would furnish a serious problem, but under present conditions they are merely a nuisance.

A small station north of Volodga there was a group of about fifty prisoners idling on the station platform, some asleep in the winter coats, some playing cards, others whittling little and knick-knacks out of soft wood. The Associated Press correspondent talked with several of them. They were greatly surprised to hear that the United States had entered the war a year before, and some of them expressed still more surprise at being informed that America was no the ally of Germany.

They had been sent to this part of Russia nearly two years before in a railway construction gang, but had done no work for several months. They lived in freight cars and got their food by hook or crook from the villagers. Some of them declared that they had not had a square meal for many days, and they accepted with genuine gratitude three old loaves of bread which the Americans were able to spare them. As an afterthought, one of the Americans thought out to the remains of a large round American cheese. It had been purchased in New York City and had accompanied the mission from Vancouver to Tokohama, Moscow, and Jassy, serving through the Rumanian campaign.

There were several large camps of German prisoners in the north of Russia, completely since the revolution, owing to difficulties with the food supply. It is said that thousands of German prisoners in those northern camps died of scurvy, which was also prevalent in many of the far northern villages and among the refugees.

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE ISSUES WARNING

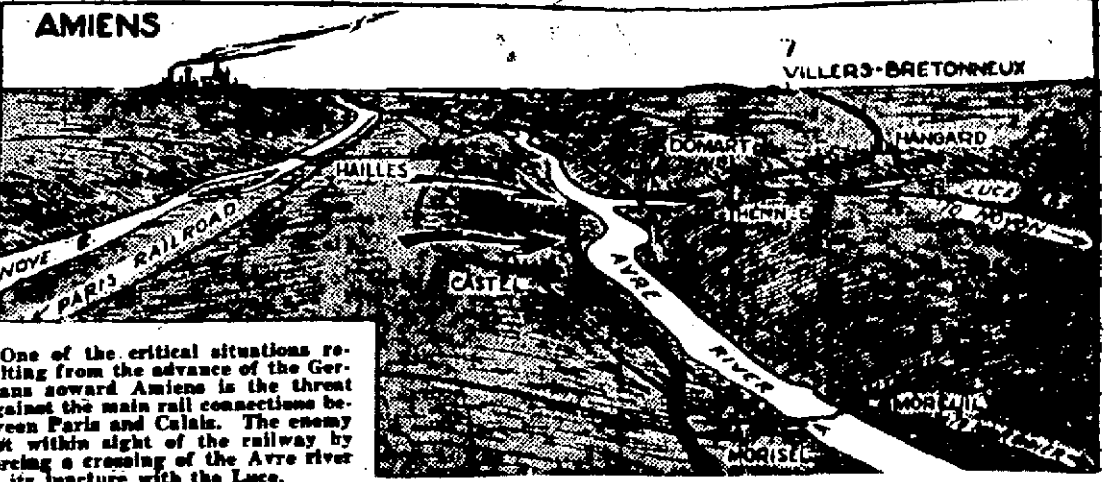

Madison, Wis., June 7.—The Wisconsin department of agriculture at the state capitol, Madison, Wis., sounds the following note of warning to hog breeders throughout the state: Numerous reports of hog cholera outbreaks have been received from widely separated localities, and its appearance this early suggests the probability of a general spread with consequent heavy losses unless prompt and effective control measures are applied in every case. Breeders are urged therefore to closely watch their herds for evidence of disease, and to report its appearance promptly. Don't wait until it spreads through the herd. Isolate the sick animal at once and send for aid. The Wisconsin department of agriculture, through its department of agricultural experts is prepared to co-operate with farmers and veterinarians in controlling outbreaks of this disease, and you are urged to call on them when necessary.

A common practice in the past has been to market light or unfinished hogs as soon as hog cholera appears in a locality because of fear of possible loss through this disease. This is unnecessary, as modern experience has shown that hogs can be carried through to the final product even in infected localities if proper methods are adopted. Farmers are urged therefore to call for suggestions from the department of agriculture.

TWO BOWLING TEAMS CLAIM CHAMPIONSHIP

St. Paul's Lutheran and Methodist Squads Both Claim Title—Thus Day, "Who Will Get the Cup?"

Two teams now lay claim to the championship of the church bowling league and there is a question as to which one is to receive the cup. St. Paul's Lutheran team, on the one hand, and the Methodist team, on the other, both claim to be the real champions because they have bowled all of their scheduled games and that not once during the series did any opposing team put them out of first position.

The Methodists claim that three teams which were scheduled to play have forfeited, therefore giving them a credit of nine games, tying the Lutherans for first place. The Lutherans on the other hand put forth the argument that when the rules for the tournament were formulated it was decided that a team which could not play its scheduled games on the dates specified must forfeit them. They say that the Methodists postponed their last three games and so they must forfeit them.

Captain Paul Hill of the St. Paul team said today that the Methodists were far from being "red" with his team and that he would refuse to play any match with them. "We are champions of the league all the way through," he stated.

DUTCH STEINMAN HAS BEEN DRAFTED

Urbana, Ill., June 7.—G. C. "Dutch" Steinman, captain-coach of the 1918 Urbana football team, has withdrawn from the university and gone to Springfield, his home, to await call to service in the national army. The loss of Steinman will seriously handicap the chances of Coach Robert Zupke for the big ten championship next fall, as he had counted on the fleet little backfield to bear the large part of the offensive attack.

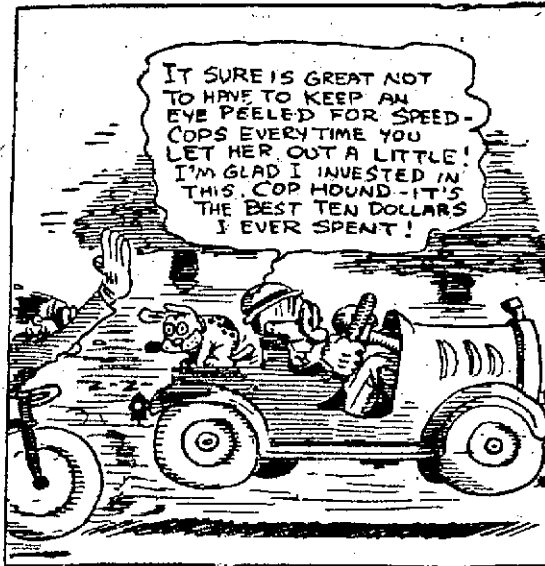

MANY PASSES FOR "TRUCK" HANNAH

"Truck" Hannah.

"Truck" Hannah, the new backstop of the New York Yankees, is a big fellow, one of the largest now playing in the major leagues, but apparently he brought a pair of keen eyes as well as great bulk when he came into the fast set. Drawing walks to first base is one of his specialties, and it is said that he does not work an opposing pitcher for at least one gift.

FIVE MAJOR PILOTS HAVE LANDED FLAGS

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS)
New York, June 6.—Five major league managers in the big show today have guided teams to a world's championship.

They are Connie Mack of the Athletics, John J. McGraw of the Giants, Fielder Jones of the Browns, George Stallings of the Braves and Clarence Rowland of the White Sox.

McGraw piloted the Giants of 1905 to the only world's championship he has won as manager of the New York club, though he has annexed five National league pennants.

Connie Mack, whose record of winning three world's baseball titles may never be equaled by another manager, capped his first purple and gold emblem in 1910, repeated the performance in 1911, and came back for a third time in 1913. Like McGraw, Mack has won five pennants with his team.

Fielder Jones, whose "Hitless Wonders" of 1906 won the world's championship from the Cubs in the only modern world's series played between two clubs representing the same city, achieved all his glory in one short season.

George Stallings, whose success in winning pennants in a number of minor leagues won him a wide reputation as a capable manager, annexed his only big league pennant and the world's title in the same space of time that it took Fielder Jones to accomplish the feat. The sensational drive of the Boston Braves of 1914 is still fresh in the memory of fans everywhere.

Clarence Rowland of the world's champion White Sox came up to the big show with no previous major league experience either as a manager or player, and within three years time reached the goal that every major league pilot strives for.

WILL HOLD YACHT RACES THIS YEAR

New York, June 7.—The championship yacht races held by the Jamaica Bay Yacht Racing Association will not be suspended this year on account of the war, as was previously expected. Commodore L. C. Helmer made this announcement today, after a conference, when a schedule of the events was prepared.

There is no international race this year, and for that reason it was thought best by the members to keep the sport alive, if possible, until the war is over.

The Belle Harbor Yacht club, one of the oldest members of the association, has withdrawn its membership, but two new members have been added, the Rockaway Park Yacht club and the Midget squadron. The association has voted to discard the old method of starting the boats with a gun.

The following schedule was announced today:
Sunday, June 16—Old Mill regatta.
Sunday, June 23—Berge Beach Yacht club race.

Sunday, July 28—Canarsie Yacht club race.

Sunday, August 11—Motor Boat club race.

Sunday, August 25—Jamaica Bay Yacht club race.

Saturday, July 13—Poughkeepsie long distance race.

Sunday, July 13—Orchard Shoal Light race.

Sunday, August 18—Matamoras club, race around Staten Island.

Lee Magee was a failure in the American league last year, but in 1914 he was shipped to Cincinnati. Dave Shean was a failure in the National league with Cincinnati, so he was shipped to the Boston Red Sox. Now both are making good. What is the answer?

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Washington has never been a great baseball town. This has been largely due to the fact that Washington has never really been a serious contender for a championship. When the veteran Clark Griffith assumed charge of the club, he put most of his diamond earnings in the club's stock. It isn't recorded that best baseball towns in the country in the point of attendance and the sudden change isn't due to an improvement in the quality of ball the Washington looms up as one of the dividends but Griffith in the millionaire's class. However, today team is playing, but rather to war conditions.

Washington is naturally the hotbed of the nation's war work. This means that the transient population of the city has been increased by thousands. Most of the newcomers are of the masculine sex and are baseball fans. Consequently every game finds a certain percentage of them decorating Mr. Griffith's stands. On top of this the commissioners of the District of Columbia have legalized Sunday baseball. The first game with Cleveland as its opposition drew 17,000 fans. The Washington club is surely in for the most prosperous season in its history.

Now we know what the ball players do in the munitions plants—they thread the nuts.

One 1918 performance that seems to be a record breaker is the making of two unassisted double plays in one season by an outfielder, said outfielder being the world's greatest—Tykstrain E. Speaker.

To make two unassisted double plays in one game is going some, too.

Dick Hoblitzel turned the trick when he was with Cincinnati in a game with the Philadelphia club.

Pop Anson did the same thing for Chicago against Brooklyn in 1891.

It's been a long time since Hughie Jennings has had a really strong pitching staff. This year he needed one worse than usual—which is to say that he was in a very bad fix. Harry Coveleskie, his main dependence on the club for the last several seasons, has been slipping steadily and isn't expected to last the season. On top of this comes the report that Dillie Mitchell, the former Cleveland left-hander, who performed rather brilliantly for Jennings last season, is to be called to the colors soon.

It pays to satisfy. Ask Johnny Dundee, the jumping Jack lightweight; he knows. Philadelphia first promotion have just made the Scotch-wop a flat offer of $20,000 for fifteen six-round contests to be held in the Quaker city some time this season. This is probably the first time in the history of the prize ring that any boxer ever received so many matches at one time. The wholesale transaction is explained on the grounds that Dundee is the most popular boxer in Philadelphia, which means that he always gives the fans a brisk run for their admission tickets.

The only thing that seems likely to upset the New York Giants in the present pennant fight is the absence of capable reserve men. As the Giants are now constituted they have only three utility men available for emergency service. Infielder Rodriguez and Outfielders Jim Thorpe and Joe Wilhot. Barring a long run of uncommonly hard luck in the way of losses and injuries the club can get along very nicely with these three. But it is by no means certain that Dame Fortune will not sooner or later turn up her nose at favorites and smite them even as she smote the Yankees a couple of seasons ago. Such things have happened in the past and are bound to happen in the future.

Much has been written about the great catchers in baseball—Schalk, Walters, Kilmer, McCarty, Alsmith and others—but none of these backstops appears to have anything on Steve O'Neill of the Cleveland. O'Neill is a veteran. He is handling some first class pitchers and he works every day. He is a beautiful thrower, knows how to size up enemy hitters and is as steady as a rock. O'Neill must not be overlooked when the question of leading backstops comes up for discussion in future.

Carl Mays beated Tris Speaker in one of the games of a Red Sox-Indian series. The accident brought on words. Mays said he did not mean to do it, and Speaker replied: "I worked on the same team with you long enough to know different."

Nike Menoskey, formerly of Washington, now in the American army in France, has written a friend in Washington that he has been in the front line of battle and hasn't had much time to play baseball, but that he carries a ball with him at the time and plays oss with it when he finds time.

JANESVILLE ALL STARS WILL PLAY ROMEO TEAM

With a grim determination to stage a comeback the Janesville All Stars have arranged a two-game series with the Romeos to be played at Bailey's diamond on Saturday and Sunday. The All Stars have lost their last two games and they have put in a stiff week of practice and are determined to start another winning streak similar to the one they started last season. Lawson will twirl for the Romeos and Hager or Bick will be on the mound for the All Stars.

The All Stars are anxious to hear from state teams and their present schedule contains many open dates.

Politics makes strange good fellows. Mr. Lemmie Peters, who graduated with such signal honors several June ago, arose at the usual hour this morning in a partook of a light breakfast. He chatted in a light vein with members of his household and appeared to be more hopeful that the war would soon end than he has been at any time since he was conscripted.

FOOTVILLE

Footville, June 5.—No all women, perhaps, are as courageous as was Mrs. Chapman, when one day last week she shot and killed a woodchuck which had been committing depredations in their garden. While about her and she discovered the woodchuck feeding upon vegetation in her garden. She took the shotgun, aimed it through an open window and fired, with the above result.

A little child of Mr. and Mrs. Nyman was taken to Beloit Hospital and operated on for appendicitis. Last reports were that she was doing as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Geo. Pepper came on Tuesday from Neilsville, Wisconsin, for a visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chipman, and other relatives both here and in Janesville.

Miss Daisy Silverthorn will enter Mercy Hospital in Janesville on Thursday, where she will submit to an operation for appendicitis.

Strawberries are beginning to ripen but some are complaining that they have been struck by a blight, therefore will not be more than one-a-crop.

Help Win--Save in Clothes

Buy them right and you'll buy less

YOU get it everywhere--"save to win;" it's the right idea.

In clothes the best way to save money and material is to buy for quality. Such clothes cost less because of the "more" they give---in wear and looks.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes are those kind; that's why we sell them and why you should buy them. We're ready to show you the new Spring styles in suits and overcoats whenever you're ready—they're all wool and tailored for long service.

A CHILD SHALL LEAD

By ETHEL HOLMES.

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

Mrs. and Mr. Van Winkle were preparing for breakfast. They were rich, the Van Winkles; in fact, they had never known a time when they had not been rich. There was one thing, however, which money could not buy for William Van Winkle, and that was good health for his dearly loved wife. In order to give her every advantage they lived almost entirely at their beautiful country home, where she could spend her entire time in the fresh air.

Then, too, Mr. Van Winkle and his wife were very fond of country life, and devoted much of their time to the cultivation of rare flowers and fruits. Their roses were the finest in the countryside, and every morning his wife found beside her plate at breakfast fresh flowers.

On this especial morning early in June not only were magnificent roses waiting for her at her place at the table but some of the finest and most luscious strawberries from their own garden. The breakfast table was set in the pagoda, which at this time in the year was covered by a mass of roses, in full bloom. As Mr. Van Winkle entered the pagoda the butler reported that the strawberries had been stolen from the table while the maids were indoors.

"These brats who live about here!" Mr. Van Winkle exclaimed. "Let me know if it happens again, John, and we'll catch the thieves, even if I have to hire special detectives for the purpose."

The next morning as Mr. Van Winkle was returning to the house from a walk before breakfast he espied the figure of a child some distance away darting through a grove of trees. In a moment the stolen berries came to his mind and he made a dash in the direction of the flying figure. He soon caught up with a little girl just as she was outside his hedge and close to the door of a nearby dilapidated house, which was evidently her home.

"Stop, you little thief!" The child came back, and in a piteous voice said:

"Please, sir, don't let mother hear; she's sick and can't eat the food we have. Good food costs too much now. I thought these berries would help make her eat."

"Where is your father?" asked Mr. Van Winkle.

"Father died last winter."

"Who supports you and your mother?"

"I have a big brother; fifteen; he earns six dollars a week; but somehow there never seems enough to get mother and me little things to eat." There was a piteous look of distress on the thin, pale face.

"How old are you?"

"Nine and a half, sir."

"Come up to the house every morning and I will leave orders with the gardener to give you fresh berries for your mother, and cream as well."

Mr. Van Winkle had always been a hard man to the poor. Born rich himself, he looked down on those in poverty as of an entirely different species from himself, devoid of the same feelings as the rich. He had once sent a poor man to prison for a small theft and felt that he had shown himself an unusually good citizen by so doing. This morning he had the awakening of his life. Was not the mother of his own children delicate? On reaching home he went upstairs to his wife's room.

"Louise," he said, "you know that strawberries were stolen from the breakfast table yesterday morning. It happened again this morning and I caught the thief."

"Oh! I am sorry for that; I wish he had escaped. What did you do with him?"

"The thief was a little girl about a year older than our Ruth. What I did with her was to tell her to come every morning and fresh berries would be given to her."

"Oh! how I love you for that," cried his wife. "Do tell me about it." By the time the story was told there were tears in the eyes of Mrs. Van Winkle. Her husband seeing her distress and for the first time harboring a similar feeling, told her that he would provide ample funds with which she could provide for the little girl and her sick mother while he would look out for the boy himself.

"If I find him to be a promising lad," he continued, "I can easily place him in a position where he will have a chance to rise."

The next spring Mrs. Van Winkle was much improved, and the woman who and her husband had helped had entirely recovered. One morning the little girl appeared at the Van Winkle breakfast room, a tiny bunch of wild wood violets in her hand, which she held out to Mrs. Van Winkle and said: "They're the first of the season; I picked them for you."

The woman took the child in her arms.

Haw, Haw!

"It says here that there is enough phosphate in a man's body to make 8,000 boxes of matches," said Mr. Grubb, as he looked up from his newspaper.

"Maybe that's the reason why he is always slumped up," responded Mrs. Grubb.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Consistent.

"How did you happen to drop out of the 'Don't Worry Club'?"

"I was too good a member. I refused to worry even about my dues."

HOW EZRA MOVED HIS WELL

It Wasn't Pulled Up Nor Sawed Up,
But Without Doubt It Did Change Place.

There is an old story about the man who pulled up a well and took it to a more desirable location and another about the man who took up a well, moved it into sections and used one of the sections for a land roller, says Youth's Companion. They were exaggerations, but the experience of Ezra Tellow proves that a well cannot always be classed as a permanent fixture. Ezra had a well in front of his house. It had never been a success as a well. Ezra wanted it filled up. One way would have been to haul stones or earth and use the material to fill it. But Ezra had no team.

So he went at it with a shovel. Working on the side of the well next to the road he began to dig and to throw the dirt into the well, which was not a difficult job as the well was rather shallow.

But when the task seemed finished Ezra found that he had made a new hole by the side of the one he had been filling. There was but one thing to do—he proceeded to fill it in the same manner. Of course this resulted in still another excavation, which in turn received similar treatment.

As all of Ezra's digging has been on the side of the well nearest the road the result was that the hole in the ground was finally moved out to the highway.

Judson Tolliver was commenting on the exploit one day down at the corners. "Queer thing Ezra did," he remarked. "You know that old well that stood in his front yard? Well, sir, he moved it 30 feet from where it was—moved it clear out into the road!"

"How'd he do it?" inquired another representative citizen.

"You'll have to ask Ezra," replied Judson. "But he did it, sure enough. I saw the well in the road yesterday, and I saw the track he made moving it. The thing plowed a furrow four feet wide all the way."

COMIC PAPER'S SHORT LIFE

"Punchinello," Founded With Highest Hopes, Proved to Be Doomed to an Early Death.

In the days when Harper's Weekly was at the height of its popularity and influence it commanded the services of the foremost illustrators in America—including the cartoonists. Every once in a while a group of these artists would become dissatisfied with the Harper parental control and would leave to establish an independent illustrated paper.

Having squandered their substance in riotous printing, says Cartoons Magazine, these artists would come to themselves and return to the Harper's home, where was bread enough and to spare. No fatted calf was killed on the return of such prodigals, but Henry Mills Alden, the veteran editor of Harper's Monthly Magazine, asserted that the house of Harper never held a grudge against any contributor, whether artist or writer, who left to try other pastures. Such was the origin and such was the end of Punchinello, a comic cartoon weekly which first appeared in New York city on April 2, 1870.

In calling attention to the fact that the first number was dated the day after All Fools day, Punchinello remarked: "This is cheering; since thus it is manifest that Punchinello leaves all the fools and jesters behind, and is therefore first in the race for the crown of comic laurel and the quiver of satire shafts." During its short life—less than a year—it was entitled to that honor.

Margains in most everything are listed in the classified columns.

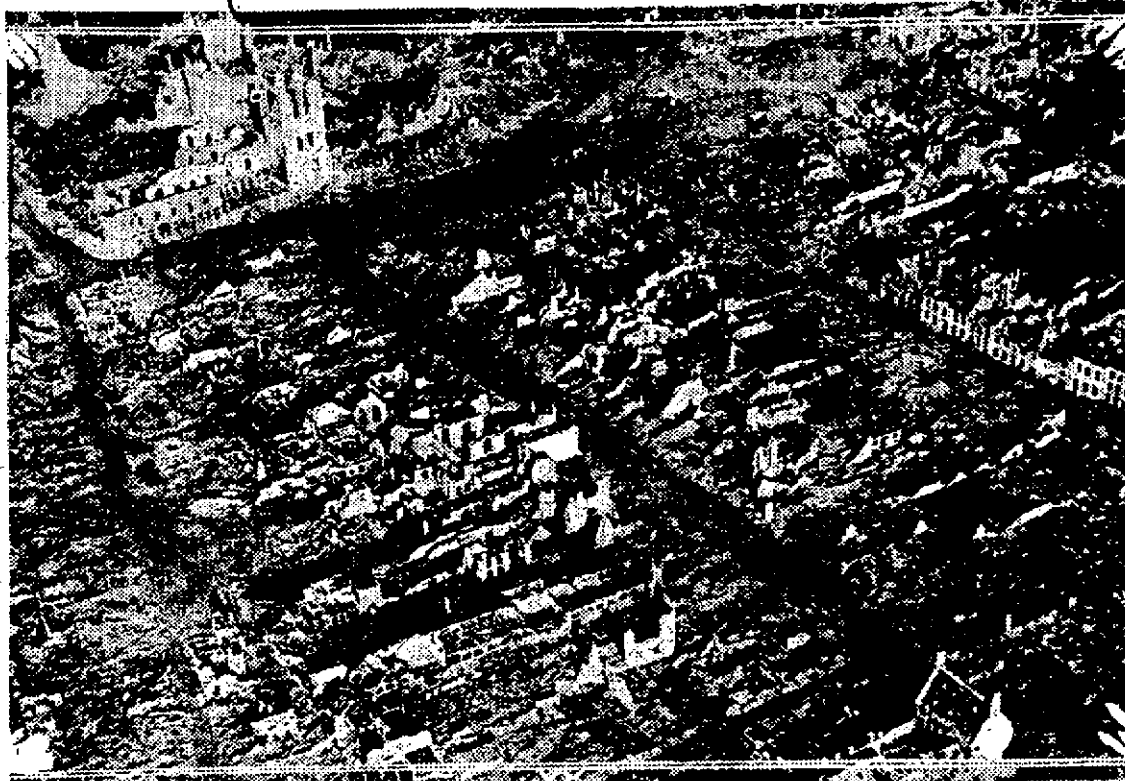

"SKY PILOT" MAN SAYS "FIGHT ON"

Major Charles W. Gordon ("Ralph Connor").

"The Hohenzollern dynasty must be made to disappear. The power of Germany to make war must be forever crushed." That is the message that Major Charles W. Gordon has carried to thousands of persons in the western and southern states in a tour just completed. Gordon is better known as Ralph Connor, the author of "The Sky Pilot," "Black Rock" and other stories. He saw two years' service with the Canadian expeditionary forces.

THE VIEW U. S. AIRMEN GET OF RUINED YPRES; THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN BY AMERICAN AVIATOR

Devastated Ypres.

The complete destruction of the beautiful city of Ypres by German bombardments is more clearly shown in the above photo than in any other sent from the front. This picture was taken at a height of 400 feet by a U. S. aviator. It shows how the city has been leveled by gun fire.

LA PRAIRIE

La Prairie, June 6.—The birthdays of the Mesdames Wm. Conway, Frances Coen and Jay Gleason were celebrated on Tuesday, June 4th, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Conway. About thirty ladies were present and spent a social afternoon. Nearly everyone was knitting, so they combined work with pleasure. Mrs. Conway received a handkerchief shower and Mrs. Coen and Mrs. Gleason post cards. At four o'clock a picnic supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. U. E. Gleason, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gleason accompanied Sgt. Ray Gleason to Camp Grant Sunday, where he expected to leave Tuesday with the supply train for an eastern cantonment. Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Breikrentz and baby visited relatives at Lake Mills Sunday.

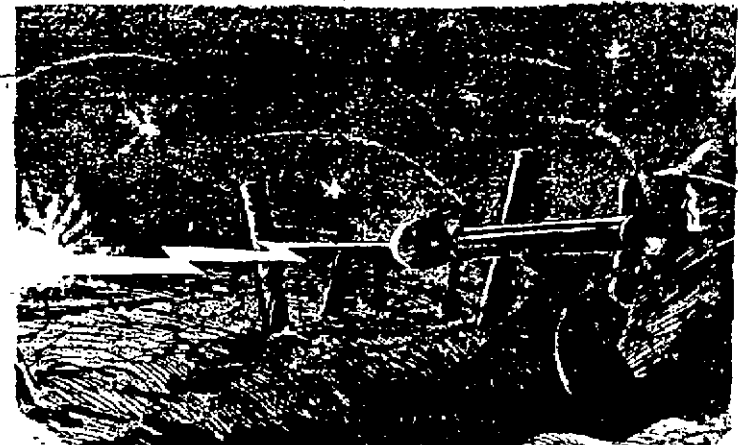

Miss Dorothy Kothlow and Bessie Mae Conway of Janesville spent Sunday at Norman Howard's.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hale visited friends in Janesville Tuesday. Mrs. L. Henry and daughter Grace went to Darien Friday to attend graduation exercises. Miss Mae Thompson, a niece of Mrs. Henry, was one of the graduates. They returned home Sunday.

How It Looked to Her.

Grandma was making her first visit to the city. She loved music and was enjoying the popular musical play of the season. Watching the graceful couple in a daring waltz, she whispered to her hostess: "That'll be a match all right."

FRIGHTFUL ELECTRIC ARC RAY MAY END WAR IN 30 DAYS, SAY SCIENTISTS

How it is proposed to turn arc ray on enemy trenches.

Dazzling swords of fire more deadly than the highest explosive followed by annihilating explosions that leap into the skies will be the forerunners of the "canned" lightning, science's newest weapon of war, that it is claimed, will blast out Germany's last hope and chance of victory and world supremacy. An Italian scientist is credited with having discovered a means of concentrating and reflecting electric rays in such a manner as to produce the results above described.

SOLDIERS AT CAMP DIX PLANT COUNTRY'S BIGGEST WAR GARDEN

Unloading the seeds for Camp Dix war garden.

Camp Dix is now planting the country's biggest war garden, 400 acres. Soldiers are shown here unloading from the first of nine motor trucks seeds sent to the camp by the national war garden commission. The war department is planning to spend $60,000 on war gardens in other camps.
